A TESTIMONIAL.

To the Skill of Doctor Brownfield.
WAMEGO, KAN., Oct. 8, 1894.
Dr. J. C. Brownfield.

MY DEAR SIR:—Words are inadequate to express my gratitude to you, when I consider that only five weeks ago my condition was hopeless. I have been, as my acquaintances well know, afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism for seven years, and had tried every doctor and everything that I thought would do me any good, but failed to get even relief until Dr. J. C. Brownfield of Topeka, came to our place, and I was induced to try his treatment, which to my great relief and satisfaction, in only five weeks has put me on my feet. At the time he commenced treating me I had despaired of all hope of ever walking again. I look upon Dr. Brownfield as a godsend in any community, and would advise all rheumatic sufferers to go to him and be cured.

This notice is unsolicited by the doctor and given by me with as clear a conscience and more pleasure than anything I ever done in my life. Respectfully,
JAMES PROPER.

RIGHTMIRE FOR LEWELLING

Though He Once Opposed the Governor, He's Stumping for Him Now.

W. F. Rightmire, who was the Populist nominee for chief justice of the supreme court four years ago, and who has been considered an anti-administration man, made his first speech in the campaign last night at Valley Falls, where Governor Lewelling spoke in the afternoon.

Rightmire is supporting the straight Populist ticket, and although the party leaders say they are not very proud of the fact that Rightmire has taken the stump in their behalf, they have been careful to make known the fact that he is speaking for Lewelling.

MRS. LEASE FAINTED

While Addressing a Populist Meeting at Auburn Yesterday.

Mrs. Mary E. Lease fainted while making a speech at Auburn, Ia this county, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Lease had been speaking fully thirty minutes, and as the meeting was in the open air and the audience was large, it required more than ordinary exertion to make herself heard. She seemed to be especially energetic in her delivery and her voice was strained to its highest pitch. The last word of the sentence had just escaped her lips when she paused, her face paled, her hands fell limp at her sides, she tottered a moment and then fell backward. She would have fallen to the floor had not the chairman J. W. Stewart caught her. She was unconscious only a short time and as soon as she regained her feet she walked to the front of the platform.

"It is only a little heart trouble which bothers me," she said.

"Sit down and rest. We can wait," shouted a dozen voices.

"No brothers," said she. "When I can not talk I want to be buried."

She then continued her speech and spoke for nearly half an hour more. Her speech was pronounced a great success. S. M. Scott also spoke.

Mrs. Lease had fully recovered this morning and left for southern Kansas where she expects to continue to work in the campaign.

CARROLL WRIGHT TALKS.

Compulsory Arbitration Means the Death of Industry and Enslavement of Labor.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The feature of the quarterly dinner of the Union League club last night, was the speech of Carroll D. Wright, United States labor commissioner, on the subject of arbitration of disputes between employees and employers. In substance Mr. Wright spoke as follows:

"I must limit myself to compulsory arbitration, as applied to productive industry. The first great question is, 'Shall a man have a right to do what he will with his own?'"

"We say now, 'no he may not if what he wishes to do with it is likely to injure the property or health of his neighbor.' A man must submit to the wishes of the community in regard to his own property."

"A third limitation is likely to be added to the answer of today. The answer will soon be: 'No, not if you injure the property or health of your neighbor.' How then shall this last answer be met when it comes, so that industry shall not be killed by its consequences?"

"No way has yet been devised to prevent strikes. The most that can be done is to reduce them in number and severity. Arbitration cannot prevent them. Voluntary arbitration seems a logical answer."

"I pass to compulsory arbitration. The advocates of this say that, first, both parties to a dispute must be compelled to come into court; and that, second, when the court issues its decree it must be enforced as any other decree would be enforced. Let us see how this will work. A is a manufacturer who pays his men on an average $2 a day. Owing to some cause he finds he cannot pay this any longer and reduces wages to $1.50. The men oppose this. They say they cannot live on less than $2. The employer says he cannot pay more. The matter is taken before a compulsory court of arbitration. Suppose the court says the men must take the $1.50. How can this be enforced? Say there are 5,000 employees. Who can make them work? The constable, the sheriff, the military forces, the military forces may be called out. But none can make them work. The decree is dead from the beginning."

"Suppose the court says the manufacturer must pay the $2. But if he really cannot afford to do so, what must happen? The employer must shut out two things. Either he must adulterate his goods to make up the difference, or he must combine with other employers in a trust to keep up the prices. The law will have compelled one of these things."

"There is also an economic question to be considered. If the state says the employer must pay a fixed price for work it has practically fixed the price of the commodity. The law can fix the price, but it cannot compel the consumers to buy at that price."

"The next logical step is to make it a penal offense not to buy at the price [Applause.] Then why not let the law fix the price of everything directly? It would be cheaper to do this directly through the cumbersome machinery of compulsory arbitration. The workman would be a slave under compulsory arbitration. He has little freedom of contract now. He must submit to the ruling prices. But compulsory arbitration will destroy what little he has left."

"It will establish the prices at which he can sell the only commodity he possesses—that is, his labor. He must accept $1.80 or not work at all if the court tells him to do so, even if the actual cost of living is $2. On whatever side we look at it compulsory arbitration means the death of industry and the enslavement of labor."

"There may be some modification of the general principle developed in the future, but I do not know it now. There should be a protest by the community against it. Few labor organs endorse it. Few scholars and thinkers are in the least in favor of it. It is a step toward the adoption of it would be to go back to the ages from which we have been divorced. It would be going back to a worse barbarism than we have ever had on this continent. There would be no life, no survival of industry under it."

WANTS STEELE DISMISSED.

Mike Thompson Says Sergeant Steele Was Topsy When the Fight Took Place.

Mike Thompson, who had the trouble with Sergeant Henry Steele of the police force Tuesday evening, will bring charges against Steele before the police commissioners.

He says Steele had been drinking beer with the Democratic flambeau club, and was under the influence of liquor when the trouble occurred. He says that he can bring witnesses to prove that Steele spent a part of the evening drinking with the Democratic flambeau club.

He also says that Steele struck him from behind, but failed to knock him down, and that he succeeded in striking Steele twice before they were separated.

A Big Populist Meeting.

Geo. Harmon, editor of the Populist paper at Valley Falls, the Farmers' Advocate, writes the STATE JOURNAL that there was a tremendous meeting of Populists at Valley Falls yesterday. Mr. Harmon places the number in the crowd at 8,000. There was a barbecue and the speakers were Governor Lewelling, S. H. Snider and W. F. Rightmire. In the evening the opera house was crowded and Annie Diggs spoke. Moses Harmon who came over from Valley Falls today says it was the biggest meeting he ever saw in that county. He has lived there and in Topeka for twenty years.
